Conference Aim

COVID-19 has offered the higher education sector across the world both challenges and opportunities. In light of the unprecedented changes we are facing, this conference, bringing together educators at higher institutions in the United Kingdom, Hong Kong, and mainland China, endeavors to explore how the pandemic has given rise to new modes of teaching and learning and how FOSS can be integrated into teaching and learning in an effective way. It provides an opportunity for researchers and educators to share insights, solutions, methods and new ideas on a variety of pedagogical issues.
